Section 2814. A. In addition to other powers for the protection of the public health, a governing body may provide for the operation of an emergency telephone service and may impose an emergency telephone fee for such service in areas, subject to the jurisdiction of the governing body, for which emergency telephone service has been contracted. The governing body may provide for the operation of an emergency telephone service under the provisions of this section and Section 2815 of this title or under the provisions of Sections 3 through 11 of this act. The governing body may do such other acts as are necessary for the protection and preservation of the public health if necessary for the operation of the emergency telephone system. The governing body is hereby authorized, by ordinance in the case of municipalities and by resolution in the case of counties, to impose such fee in an amount not to exceed five percent (5%) during the first year of the fee and not to exceed three percent (3%) in any year thereafter of the tariff rate in areas subject to the jurisdiction of the governing body for which emergency telephone service has been contracted; provided, that after the first year of operation when a governing body determines there exists a need for ancillary communications systems necessary to pass the reported emergency to the appropriate emergency service and personnel, the governing body by ordinance or resolution may restore such fee in an amount not to exceed five percent (5%) for such an additional time as is needed to purchase said ancillary communications equipment; provided, the electors of a county or municipality may vote to impose a fee of up to five percent (5%) of the tariff rate in any year or years after the first year of the fee; and provided that any such fee imposed by a county shall not apply to any portion of the county located within the boundaries of a municipality imposing an emergency telephone fee pursuant to the provisions of Section 2811 et seq. of this title; and provided further, that any such fee imposed by the electors of a county having a population of less than thirty thousand (30,000) or municipality having a population of less than thirty thousand (30,000) shall remain as such until a new vote of the electors of such county or municipality is conducted in the manner for which such election was conducted to impose such fee. The ordinance or resolution shall be effective sixty (60) days after its publication unless a later date is specified in the ordinance or resolution, or unless the adoption of the ordinance or resolution is made subject to an election called pursuant to the provisions of subsection B of this section, in which case the ordinance or resolution shall be effective upon certification of the election results by the county election board.

B. Within sixty (60) days of the publication of a resolution by a county adopted pursuant to subsection A of this section, there may be filed with the county election board of the county a petition signed by not less than three percent (3%) of the registered voters of the county. Within sixty (60) days of publication of an ordinance adopted by a city pursuant to subsection A of this section there may be filed with the county election board of the county in which the city is located a petition signed by not less than three percent (3%) of the total number of votes cast in the next preceding election of the city. Either of such petitions may request that the question of the installation and operation of emergency telephone service and imposition of a fee therefor be submitted to the qualified voters of the county or the city. Upon determination of the sufficiency of such petition and certification thereof by the county election board, the proposition shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the county or city not less than sixty (60) days following the certification of such petition. In the alternative, the governing body publishing the resolution or ordinance may, upon its own initiative, call an election to submit the question of the installation and operation of emergency telephone service and imposition of the fee therefor to the qualified voters of the county or city.

C. If a majority of the votes cast at the election provided pursuant to subsection B of this section are for the installation and operation of emergency telephone service and imposition of a fee therefor the governing body may provide for the installation and operation of such service and impose such fee. The fee provided pursuant to the provisions of subsection A of this section and the resolution or ordinance establishing the fee shall become effective.

D. The fee provided pursuant to the provisions of subsection A of this section may be imposed for a period not to exceed three (3) years after which the governing body may renew the fee in an amount not to exceed three percent (3%) of the tariff rate for no longer than three (3) years at a time, using the procedure provided in this section provided, however, that any such fee imposed by the electors of a county having a population of less than thirty thousand (30,000) or municipality having a population of less than thirty thousand (30,000) shall remain as such until a new vote of the electors of such county or municipality is conducted in the manner for which such election was conducted to impose such fee. The proceeds of the fee shall be utilized to pay for the operation of emergency telephone service as specified in this section, and may be collected at any time subsequent to execution of a contract with the provider of such service at the discretion of the governing body. Collection of such fee may begin at any time if an existing emergency telephone service is already operative, otherwise the fee shall not begin prior to contracting for the emergency telephone service.

E. The tariff rate used for initial calculation of the emergency telephone service fee shall remain static for the purpose of calculating future fees for emergency telephone service. Therefore, future rate changes for emergency telephone service shall be stated as a percentage of the initial tariff rate.

F. The emergency telephone fee shall be imposed only upon the amount received from the tariff for exchange telephone service or its equivalent. No such fee shall be imposed upon more than one hundred exchange access lines or their equivalent per person per location.

G. Every billed service user shall be liable for any fee imposed pursuant to this section until it has been paid to the local exchange telephone company.

H. The duty to collect any fee imposed pursuant to the authority of the Nine-One-One Emergency Number Act, Section 2811 et seq. of this title, from a service user shall commence at such time as specified by the governing body. Fees imposed pursuant to the authority of this section and that are required to be collected by the local exchange telephone company shall be added to and may be stated separately in the billings to the service user.

I. The local exchange telephone company shall have no obligation to take any legal action to enforce the collection of any fee imposed pursuant to authority of this section, however, should any service user tender a payment insufficient to satisfy all charges, tariffs, fees and taxes for exchange telephone service, the amount tendered shall be credited to the emergency telephone fee in the same manner as other taxes and fees. The local exchange telephone company shall annually provide the governing body with a list of amounts uncollected along with the names and addresses of those service users which carry a balance that can be determined by the local exchange telephone company to be nonpayment of any fee imposed pursuant to the authority of this section.

J. Any fee imposed pursuant to the authority provided by this section shall be collected insofar as practicable at the same time as, and along with, the charges for exchange telephone service in accordance with the regular billing practice of the local exchange telephone service. The tariff rates determined by or stated in the billing of the local exchange telephone company shall be presumed to be correct if such charges were made in accordance with the business practices of the local exchange telephone company. The presumption may be rebutted by evidence which establishes that an incorrect tariff rate was charged.
