Research Analysis

The committee substitute to HB 1145 removes the requirement that a person who was under 18 at the time the offense was committed to have received a full pardon prior to seeking an expungement. The measure removes the requirement that at least one year has passed since the charge was dismissed before seeking an expungement for a misdemeanor charge that was later dismissed. The measure lowers the amount of time that has passed before seeking an expungement for a nonviolent felony offense upon completion of a deferred judgment or delayed sentence from 5 years to 2 years after dismissal. The measure raises the fine threshold for person seeking an expungement for a misdemeanor offense when the person was sentenced to a fine from $501 to $1,001. The measure modifies the time limits on when a person can seek an expungement for a nonviolent felony offense.
