Bill Analysis

SB 1713 prohibits certain political subdivisions from regulating design elements of a single-family residential building unless the structure is declared historic, designated as a landmark, located on a property governed by a joint agreement, located on property governed by the regulating entity, located on a property governed by a financial incentive district, or located on property governed by a policy or regulation of an overlay zoning district. Additionally, the regulations must be related to life or building safety, applied to manufactured housing in a similar manner, or adopted as a condition for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program.
