Fiscal Analysis

The measure, as engrossed, would classify assaults and batteries on employees of facilities maintained or contracted by the Department of Human Services as felonies.

Upon review, passage of the measure may result in a fiscal impact to the state. The measure would expand the applicability of a felony. By doing so, the measure may increase incarceration costs borne by the state. The measure may also increase fine revenue received by the state. The exact impact would depend on the number and disposition of cases.
