Bill Analysis

SB 1330 provides that any federal statute, rule, or executive order, federal or state judicial order, or judicial finding that would have the effect of forcing an extreme risk protection order or ex parte extreme risk protection order against a citizen of the state that infringes on the citizen's constitutionally protected rights shall have no effect in the state. No individual, including law enforcement officials, may attempt to enforce an unlawful federally implemented extreme risk protection order upon a citizen of the state. Any person found to have attempted to enforce the order shall be guilty of a felony.
