Research Analysis

SB 1100 modifies the penalties for any person willfully aiding a person in attempting to take his or her own life. The measure provides that the crime is a felony and punishable by a fine of up to $1,000, a term of imprisonment not to exceed 2 years or both fine and imprisonment. The measure provides that any person guilty of a felony related to threats or harassment as found in Title 21, Section 1172, that can be shown to be the proximate cause of the attempted suicide of the victim of such offense shall, upon conviction, be guilty of willfully aiding a person in attempting to take his or her own life. The measure also creates a maximum fine of $5,000 for any person found to have aided suicide. The measure expands anti-bullying provisions of law to include online platforms. Additionally, the measure provides that a person convicted of a crime relating to these provisions is subject to a maximum fine of $500, imprisonment in the county jail for up to 1 year or both fine and imprisonment. Any person convicted for a subsequent offense is subject to a maximum fine of $1,000, imprisonment in the county jail for up to 2 years, or both fine and imprisonment. A person found guilty of a third and subsequent offenses is subject to a fine of $5,000 to $100,000, a term of imprisonment in the custody of the Department of Corrections for up to 10 years or both.
