Fiscal Analysis

The CCR to SB1835 sets forth that the courts must consider certain mitigating factors in cases related to domestic violence. If such mitigating factors are found to apply, then the court shall depart from the applicable sentence ranges outlined in the measure. These shorter sentence lengths would be a cost savings to the Department of Corrections, however the number of cases that would be affected by SB1835 is not predictable. Overall, the measure is not anticipated to have a material impact on state budget or appropriations.
